Teranode and TIBCO Partner to Deliver Seamless Product Integration for Life Science Customers

Teranode Fuel, TIBCO Spotfire combo delivers powerful research intelligence capabilities to executives and scientists

SEATTLE, Wash. — May 21, 2009 — Teranode Corporation, the leading innovator of software for the Life Sciences industry, today announced a technology partnership with enterprise analytics software leader TIBCO Software Inc. Through the partnership, the company has implemented seamless integration between the TIBCO Spotfire® Enterprise Analytics platform and Teranode Fuel offerings, enabling executives and scientists to access new research intelligence information from their existing data stores.

“The integration between TIBCO Spotfire® and Fuel provides a powerful new decision making environment.” said Bill, Doyle, Vice President of Business Development, TIBCO Spotfire. “By combining the power of Spotfire enterprise analytics with the semantic power of Fuel, we’re allowing new ways to turn data into information.”

“We are happy to be able to offer our customers a highly integrated solution with the dominant player in the data analysis and visualization market,” said Joe Duncan, CEO of Teranode Corporation. “By improving the analysis and access to their data, we’re enabling our pharmaceutical industry customer to streamline their decision processes, ultimately helping them bring new drug candidates to market, faster.”

Combination Impacts Life Sciences Discoveries in Real-Time

Teranode Fuel is a next-generation research intelligence application for executives and managers in Life Sciences that delivers new insight through better decisions. The TIBCO Spotfire Enterprise Analytics platform offers a visual and interactive experience that helps professionals quickly discover new and actionable insights in information. Teranode Fuel leverages the Spotfire API to provide bidirectional integration that allows customers to utilize Spotfire’s rapid prototyping capabilities and out of the box visualizations. The integrated solution utilizes the power of Teranode Fuel’s decision support capabilities and combines them with the powerful analysis capabilities of TIBCO Spotfire. This combination allows the aggregation of information in real-time across projects and their subjects, and enables quick discovery of new information.
